Task 1: Rude Staff at a Retail Store

Excellent sample answer (written at around CLB 11–12, an estimate, not an official score)

Dear Store Manager,

I hope this email finds you well. On May 25, 2025, I visited your clothing store with the intent to purchase several items but was met with disheartening service. A staff member not only ignored my inquiries about product sizing but also responded with a dismissive and abrasive tone, which soured my shopping experience and prompted me to leave empty-handed. To restore customer confidence, I recommend comprehensive staff training focused on professionalism and courtesy. I would appreciate your response outlining steps to address this concern.

Warm regards,

Task 2: Employee Benefits and Work-Life Balance Survey

Excellent sample answer (written at around CLB 11–12, an estimate, not an official score)

I am convinced that implementing flexible work hours or remote work arrangements (Option A) is the most effective strategy for fostering work-life balance. Flexibility empowers employees to tailor their schedules around family commitments and personal priorities, which boosts morale and reduces burnout. While on-site wellness amenities (Option B) enhance the workplace environment, they do not address the fundamental need for time and autonomy. Ultimately, flexible policies benefit a broader range of staff and contribute to long-term satisfaction and productivity.
